How to Handle a Phone Interview
Nick Mueldener

Personal Preparation

1. Smile—it comes across in your voice.
2. Consider getting dressed up, even if they can’t see you.
3. Stand up while you talk: the extra energy will come out in your voice.
4. Keep a glass of water nearby in case your throat runs dry from speaking so much.
5. Schedule free time before and after the interview, so you aren’t rushed.

Environment

1. Be aware of the noise environment around you (pets, traffic, loud air conditioners, etc.). If you’re in your office, put a sign up to note that you’re in an interview.
2. Do not use a cell phone. Use a landline if at all possible.
3. For Skype interviews, be aware of everything in the room behind you that the interviewer will be able to see.
4. If you’re using a cell phone, put it on silent in the event that you receive another call or text message during the interview.
5. If you’re easily distracted, consider removing those distractions or interviewing in a different location.

Interview Management

1. Keep notes, your resume, a sheet of paper with a pen, and if possible keep the organization’s website open in front of you so you can refer to specifics about the job or organization.
2. Don’t interrupt the interviewer.
3. Prepare a list of questions to ask them ahead of time.
4. Don’t be afraid to ask for clarification on questions to make sure you heard them correctly.
5. Pause briefly before you answer a question, to make sure the interviewer’s actually finished asking the question.
6. It’s okay to pause and think about your answer. You don't need to jump right into it.
7. Keep your questions short and let the interviewer ask for additional information.
